

GRANT PARK MULTI ALTERNATIVE STRATEGIES FUND
Performance Summary
 March 2019

GPAIX Monthly Return	GPAIX YTD Return
4.13%	5.21%

The Program's performance during March was positive and driven by gains in the Global Financials Strategy.

Short-Term Interest Rates Strategy 0.62%

Long positions in eurodollars and short sterling drove the strategy's positive performance as global interest rates moved lower during the month. The Federal Reserve announced a change in policy, saying it had no plans to raise rates in 2019. Short sterling benefitted as the Bank of England remained accommodative amidst Brexit concerns.

Commodities Strategy -0.52%

Negative results stemmed from short positions in cotton. Prices rose after the USDA reported plantings will drop 2.3% from last year; the strategy reduced its short positions. Long positions in palladium added to losses and were liquidated by month end. Short corn, bean and wheat positions partially offset strategy losses.

Global Financials Strategy 2.80%

The strategy's long positions in Japanese Government Bonds, UK Long Gilt, German Bund, US 10 Year and US 5 Year benefitted as central banks continued accommodative policies. The yield on the German Bund moved into negative territory as the ECB downgraded growth projections for the region. In the equities sector, long positions in the S&P, Hang Seng and the NASDAQ added to the strategy's gains. Optimism about a trade agreement between the U.S. and China added to investor confidence.

Upside Capture Strategy 1.23%

This long-biased strategy benefitted as equity holdings rose in value, with US equities posting their strongest quarter since 2010. Holdings in the FTSE 100 Index and S&P 500 Index were the biggest contributors. Fixed income positions, especially in the U.S. 30 Year Bond and the German Bund, added to gains as global interest rates continued to move lower. Gold positions partially offset strategy gains.

In general, the price of a fixed income and U.S. Government security falls when interest rates rise. Currency trading risks include market risk, credit risk and country risk. Investments in foreign securities could subject the Fund to greater risks including, currency fluctuation, economic conditions, and different governmental and accounting standards.

Sovereign debt investments are subject to the risk that a governmental entity may delay or refuse to pay interest or repay principal. Using derivatives to increase the Fund's combined long and short exposure creates leverage, which can magnify the Fund's potential for gain or loss. Short positions may be considered speculative transactions and involve special risks, including greater reliance on the Adviser's ability to accurately anticipate the future value of a security or instrument. Underlying Funds are subject to investment advisory and other expenses, which will be indirectly paid by the Fund. As a result, the cost of investing in the Fund will be higher than the cost of investing directly in an Underlying Fund. By investing in commodities indirectly through the Subsidiary, the Fund will obtain exposure to the commodities markets within the federal tax requirements that apply to the Fund, which may be taxed at less favorable rates than capital gains.

The Subsidiary will not be registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("1940 Act") and, unless otherwise noted in the Prospectus, will not be subject to all of the investor protections of the 1940 Act. Certain Fund investments may be difficult to purchase or sell, preventing the Fund from selling such illiquid securities at an advantageous time or price. Swap agreements are subject to the risk that the counterparty to the swap will default on its obligation to pay the fund and the risk that the fund will not be able to meet its obligations to pay the counterparty to the swap. The fund may have investments that appreciate or depreciate significantly in value over short periods of time, causing the fund's value per share to increase or decline in over short periods of time.

Investments in alternative funds may not be suitable for all investors.
